Then Omaha was in the midst of hard times, struggling with actual poverty and temporal distress. Rich men were poor, and those who had plenty had nothing. The owners of land and scores of town lots did not possess money enough to buy a pound of sugar; and owners of cottonwood cut it into cords, and, loading it up. exchanged it for the pressing necessaries of life. Many left the city because they could not live if they remained, and many more would gladly have left had they not been prevented by cumbersome properties which they could neither take with them or sell. Now the city is "booming." Work is plenty and business brisk. Buildings rise up in a day as mushreoms in a night. None are in want that have willing hands. The Emanual English Evangelical Lutheran church of Omaha was founded in 1858 by Rev. Henry W. Kuhns, under the auspices of the Allegheny synod, of Pennsylvania, and its first church building and parsonage were on the north side of Douglas street, between 12th and 13th streets.

In the early part of 1881 the site of the old church was sold to the Millard Hotel company for $16,000, and the site chosen for the new church, a lot on the northeast corner of Harney and Sixteenth streets, was bought for $3,500. The half lot adjoining was subsequently purchased for $4,500.

> It is an old proverb that lightning never strikes twice in the same place, but our orthy councilman, Mr. D. L. McGuckin, can testify to the contrary. A week ago Saturday night, his place was robbed by a trio of young desperadoes, The Semi-Annual Statement of the one of whom was captured by block watchman Powers, and is now in jail waiting trial on charge of burglary.

Yesterday morning Mr. McGuckin and Mr. Griffin were awakened at their room above Merritt's restaurant by Mr. Powers and informed that they had again been visited by the gang. About 2 o'clock a BEE reporter, who was on the street, heard an explosion, which seemed to be so far off and of such a nature as to indicate that it was the Guckin's he took particular pains, as one But, with this position and height of of the windows was partially up and the

A Daring Steeple Climber in Mid-Air.

A Practical Illustration of "Simply to Thy Cross I Cling."

The attention of everybody in the lower end of town was Saturday attracted by the sight of a man on the pinnacle of the steeple of St. Philomena's cathedral on Ninth street.

The exact height of the steeple if not known to the reporter, and inquiry failed to obtain any information on the subject, it being estimated by someas high as 250

DOUGLAS COUNTY'S DUCATS.

Treasurer.

A Fine Showing in Every Respect,

The assessed valuation of Douglas Co. as shown by statement published on another page, although increasing annually, is very low. It is safe to say that it does not represent more than one-fifth of the real value of the property in Douglas County. The readers of THE BEB will into the Douglas County treasury six months after the tax-list has been given prising when we reflect that a great many persons particularly in the country, who have no realty, allow themselves to be assessed, and have not the least intention of ever paying, as they are merely tran sient settlers, and work for others. We are authorized to say that the amount on hand on July 1st has since been considerably reduced. For instance, the state funds, amounting to $31,000. have been sent to the state; the school fund has been paid out to the extent o $20,000, while the county general fund, the road fund, court house fund, etc., have also been extensively drawn upon. It is due to the enterprise of The Bee to say that the publication of this and the preceding statement has been given to its readers immediately after its preparation. and that we have gone to considerable pains to print it in full for the informa tion of tax pavers.

It is also due to the county treasurer to say that his statement has been prepared under the greatest difficulties. Coming as it did in the busiest season of the year, the treasurer, Mr. Rush, and his deputy, Mr. Rhodes, did all the work themselves and it may be said without fear of contradiction that there is no office in the state where so much work is done with so little help. It will prove of interest to every tax payer to carefully examine the statement and see just what the state of our county finances are.
